JUNE.

Not in the tender bloom of Spring she stands,
Timid, with hooded eyes, yet wondrous fair,
Hearkening on eager ear a voice which there
Breathed sweet annunciation—patient hands
Treasured the promise, but the strange commands
Made tremulous the maiden's heart with awe.
No! not with lowly fear that did not dare
Believe she held the glory of the lands,
But as the radiant woman, do we see
A beauteous form within the folding blue;
And cherub faces smile the roses through
As from the nebulous mist of morn set free,
Floats calmly on to golden heights of noon,
The virgin mother whom we christen June.
[Mary B. Dodge in Appleton's Journal.

DUTIES OF SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS.

At a quarterly meeting of the school superintendents, of this state, held at the office of Commissioner Bicknell, June 11th, the following important suggestions relative to school supervision were presented by Superintendent Kenyon of East Greenwich:

"The superintendent of schools should be the executive officer of the school committee and should receive full instructions with regard to the nature of his duties from that body. His duties should be not only advisory but also authoritative under the school committee, and he should be endowed by them with the same direction, oversight and authority respecting the schools of his charge as a superintendent in any other vocation receives from his superiors. He should learn the peculiarities and wants of every school; should be a member of the board for the examination of teachers, and be present at their sessions.

The superintendent should visit all the schools under his care near the beginning and close of every term, and as much oftener as his presence is required or circumstances will permit, and should pass at least one session at each visit, see that the register is properly kept and correct returns are made. He should notice particularly the deportment of both teachers and pupils, the methods of instruction and government pursued by the former, and the manner of recitation of the latter, and make suitable suggestions in regard to teaching, morals or manners. If familiar with the teachers' style, it would benefit the school for the superintendent to take charge of the school and conduct the recitations during the period of his visit. Whatever improvements or changes he may suggest, either in discipline or instructions, should be carried out by the teacher, and he should be responsible for their success or failure.

He should be accessible to both teachers and parents at all times, for advice or direction, and should be able to decide promptly all questions respecting the management of schools.

He should inspect the condition of the school house and its appurtances; if repairs are needed, it should be reported to the trustee or school committee, and evidence of defacement or uncleanliness should be reported to the teacher.

The superintendent should see that there are no gross infringements of the rules and regulations established by the school committee.

It should be his business to correct everything which he sees amiss in the operation of the schools, and no member of the school committee should issue any order to conflict with his authority unless the same has been duly passed upon by that body. He should endeavor to promote public instruction; project and arrange teacher's meetings, institutes and other educational meetings within the limits of the town and advance the diffusion of knowledge by every means in his power.

DR. GRANT'S GILT-EDGE BUTTER.

Another candidate for high honors in the worthy effort to increase the world's supply of good butter is Dr. A. H. Grant, who is described by an appreciative correspondent as "Georgian by birth, a New Englander by marriage, a physician by profession, a scientist by nature, a nobleman in hospitality, a student enriched by foreign culture and travel, and withal a man with a decided penchant for farming." Whether he expects to have "this and Heaven too" we are not informed, but we are in possession of some interesting particulars concerning his dairy farm, which is called "Longview," is located at Enfield in Connecticut, and is a compact homestead of 155 acres, well watered, and especially adapted to grass and grazing. The number of his cows is not given, but most of them have royal names. They are carefully stabled tied with ropes about the neck bedded with sand on a plank floor, carded daily, and their udders sponged before each milking. Every dairy virtue is in vogue here, and the greatest of them all is cleanliness. The Winter's feed is prepared in a large steam-chest of a capacity of about six cubic feet, with rubber packings around the lid; into this 200 bushels chopped hay and stalks mixed with 4 bushels of corn meal and 8 of wheat bran are turned in at a time; about 50 gallons of water are added and the steam from an engine 500 feet distant, brought through underground iron pipes laid in cement, is let on twice a week. It takes from 10 to 15 hours to cook a box full, but the engine is used for pumping, grinding, churning, washing, etc. besides. Each cow is supplied twice a day with a bushel of the mixture at a time, and long hay when more feed is needed. The milk goes to a spring house, the water of which is kept at the right temperature in Winter by a novel and ingenious arrangement of pipe coils from the engine. Cylindrical tin-pails 20 inches deep are used for setting; those are lowered into the water for half an hour, or until the animal heat is expelled, and then drawn up by pulleys and suspended over the water for 36 to 48 hours. The cream is then removed with a funnel-shaped skimmer, which after being dipped in water to prevent sticking is lowered into the pails and the cream rushes over its edge.

The churn is a clean-washed white oak of the old dasher sort. A steam attachment is applied. strokes are 40 per minute, which, when the cream is 60 degrees, brings the butter in an hour. As soon as the butter granulations appear a few quarts of cold water are poured into the churn; the butter is worked on a oak table with an octagon lever; the bare hand never touches it; salt is incorporated according to taste; the butter is then placed in a close firkin and deposited in the spring room to be cooled and reworked into balls the following day, moisture being absorbed by a sponge wrapped in a linen napkin. The product last year was about 4,000 pounds, all sold to one dealer in the neighboring village, and it seems in a fair way to be in demand in more distant regions.—[N. Y. Tribune.

THE LATEST IN SHIPPING.—The Inflexible, the latest pattern of war-ship, now building for the English navy, is an extraordinary vessel. What may be called her distinguishing characteristic is that she will have, in the sense of vulnerability, no "wind and water line" at all. Every one must know that the vitals of a man-o'-war lies along the belt of her flotation—a breach of her sides in that region lets in the sea and swamps her. The Inflexible carries all her side armor upon a central space 110 feet in length. It is twenty-four inches thick, and protects with that monstrous wall of solid iron, her engines, her crew, and her battery of four eighty-ton guns. Along the rest of her fore and aft there is no vertical armor, but a thick inside cushion of cork of enormous buoyancy, more than sixty feet square in section, surrounding bunkers full of coal for the supply of the ship. A horizontal deck of thick metal extending fore and aft from the citadel, at a depth of six or seven feet from the water-line, will cut off all this unarmored upper portion from the real hold of the vessel. Thus if the enemy should send shot or shell through every coal bunker and corner of the Inflexible, forward and aft, letting in the water everywhere, he could only,—if the designer's expectation,—lower her a single foot in the sea.

Her citadel, it may be confidently expected, he could not pierce; at any rate with guns at present in use. In a work the constructors of of the Inflexible give an enemy the upper slices of the ship, except her citadel, to do as he likes with: and it is by making the ends floatable under any circumstances that the iron work of the ponderous citadel, with its turrets and freeboard can be carried. The ram and the torpedo are therefore the only perils which threaten this forthcoming fighting ship; but perhaps these also might be provided against if her bottom under the water deck were constructed in many compartments.

THE DAY.

The Friends have held their yearly meeting at this place for two hundred and thirty years consecutively with one exception which occurred during the British occupation in the revolutionary war.

The senate yesterday appropriated $2,500 for the aid of evening schools. The appropriation was $5000 last year, but there is now an unexpended balance from last year of $990 and it is believed that by putting the care of these schools more directly in the hands of the school board the expenses will be reduced. The constabulary bill excited a good deal of discussion in both branches of the legislature. In the senate it was urged by Mr. Metcalf and opposed by Mr. Powel and Mr. Turner. It is a noticeable fact that the most earnest advocates of this bill are from Providence and its most determined of opponents are from the comparatively rural constituencies. The new state prison was discussed somewhat in the house.

THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS.

When one of the Friends said the other day that the spirit that "thee" and "thou" represents was the only spirit that would improve the moral and spiritual condition of the Indians he committed the error of mistaking the husk for the kernel. "Thee" and "thou" represent not Christianity, but partisanship. The society of Friends owes its existence to its adherence to the cardinal principles of Christianity—principles which are not represented by peculiarities of speech or garb, but by the virtuous lives and good deeds which have characterized the members of the society. "Thee" and "thou" are only accidents and so far as they represent anything they represent the spirit of separation and narrowness which Friends, like all other Christians, are outgrowing.

Few Friends would confess it, and many of them are not conscious of it, but it is a fact that their society becomes strong, useful and aggressive only as it lays aside the external peculiarities which separate it from other Christian bodies. During this and other yearly meetings much time has been spent in discussing the declension of the society. The remedies suggested have all been borrowed from Christians "out of meeting." With a view to developing spiritual activity what they call general meetings were introduced, not without opposition. These general meetings are essentially the prayer and conference meetings of other denominations. They were introduced as an experiment by some aggressive members and were opposed by the conservatives, but they have borne good fruits and they have been adopted as a recognized agency of the society for doing good.

"Quaker meeting" will soon cease to be a synonym for sepulchral silence. The Friends have adopted a view of the "moving of the spirit" which is much more in accordance with the view held by other denominations than their original view. They promptly take part in their devotional meetings and occasionally call upon each other for prayer or remarks with the consciousness that the spirit they seek is much more apt to inspire earnest, active men and women than to visit those who sit still and wait for some astonishing experience of sensation. The singing of hymns is occasionally indulged in, and they pass the missionary box around quite as other denominations do.

Silence having been considerably dispelled from their meetings they will soon discover the need of parliamentary law in their business sessons. Their cumbrous and undecisive methods of obtaining the will of a meeting must soon give way to the conventional motion and its second and the affirmative and negative vote. An examination of the subject will convince them that there is nothing in Cushing's Manual derogatory to the Scriptures, and that the adoption of its rules would save them many an hour of valuable time.

The Friends are manifesting a decided and growing interest in the subject of education and they will probably have a collegiate institution at Providence before long. But every thing they do for a higher education is a blow at the spirit that is represented by "thee" and "thou." A liberal education and more especially familiarity with Latin and Greek and with general literature will dissipate objections to the common nomenclature of the calendar and will arouse doubts as to the piety of the ungrammatical "Is thee well?" Learning is not antagonistic to Christianity but it is antagonistic to very limited views of things and exaggerations of minute and unimportant points.

In proportion as the Friends distinguish between the major and the minor features of their belief and waive the unimportant oddities while they hold fast to the cardinal principles of love to God and man, truthfulness, peaceableness and moderation they will be successful in remedying the declension of their society and will have the sympathy and coöperation of other branches of the church universal.

CHURCH TAXATION SETTLED.

To the Editor of the Daily News.

SIR:—I see that you have opened your columns to the discussion of the important question of "Church Taxation" and I should like to participate in it to the extent of these few lines if you see fit to publish them:

1. Civis certainly leans to infidelity.
2. G. N. seems financially wrong when he writes of "decreasing the taxes one hundred per cent."
3. Civis is certainly justified in asking G. N. "How much would be left for the Government to pay." I should like to know myself.
4. The Bible is the bulwark of our liberties. G. N. is right there.
5. Tax colleges if you wish to.
6. Tax all church property of all denominations excepting only the edifice itself.
7. If you tax the costly churches you will prevent the erection of them. You will prevent the growth of architectural knowledge and you will throw out of employment many skilled workmen.
8. If you wish it, put a small tax of five per cent. on all churches now erected or to be built for the privilege of exemption forever of all taxes on the edifice and the ground and for 20 feet on each side of it.
9. G. N. is right about the "reign of terror"—the moment the French people deserted religion they became devils.
10. The church of Christ is the only safety of nations and man's only hope.
11. Pass laws compelling the Rectors, Wardens and Vestry of all churches, to hand in yearly a record of all the poor they have relieved, all the sick they have visited, all the money they have expended and how expended and raised, the number married, the number received in church membership, the number christened, the number confirmed, and the number buried. By this means an estimate of their usefulness can be formed.
12. Taxation will, under these rules, be far more equally distributed.
13. Religion must triumph and will.
14. Fanatics of all kinds are public curses.
15. May God save the state of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations.

Yours synthetically and apostolically,

SINBAD, the Statesman.

Owl's Roost, Newport, R. I., June 17, '74.

P. S. Civis and G. N. can both read this with profit.

PERSONALS.

.....Madame Lucca's last concert in America is announced to take place in Music Hall, Boston, next Saturday afternoon.

.....Professor Hitchcock, of Dartmouth College, will soon receive from New Zealand two skeletons of the extinct bird, the dinornis, the first ever brought to this country.

.....The "salary grab" is not forgotten, as Mr. Mark H. Dunnell, of Minnesota, has discovered. Even the party organs there oppose his renomination for Congress.

.....We have always felt an interest in what "Jones says," and have done our part towards making the independent daily press a medium between Jones and the public. This interest now seems to centre in what Jones of Nevada says. J. of N. is now trying to reconcile Schurz and the President. —[Boston Transcript.

.....The Emperor of Germany has greatly improved in health since his visit to Wiesbaden. At the military parades recently held in Berlin and Potsdam he mounted his horse easily and without any help, rode slowly, but with an upright carriage, along the lines, and at the close "galloped his horse and reined it in with the seeming strength and dexterity of a young man."

.....Mr. Colfax has been writing a letter about the Grangers. He says that the evils which the grange organization was primarily intended to correct or modify were pointed out warningly by him in a Fourth of July oration two years ago, before the organization had attained its present prominence. He is particularly pleased that the grangers admit their wives to membership and take such strong ground against intemperance.

.....A very good story is circulating in Washington at the expense of Mr. Morrill of Maine. It seems that the Senator was out for a walk, Sunday evening. In passing a leading colored church, he was so pleased with the singing that he went in. He had been seated but a few minutes when a colored dignitary approached him and said in substance that the church was for colored people and they preferred to be left undisturbed by white people during their services. Mr. Morrill retired. A few days before he had been earnestly working for the passage of the civil-rights bill.

.....Cochise, the famous Apache chief, whose name was so long a terror to the whites of the Southwest, has at last succumbed to disease; his death occurred last Tuesday. His history is like that of so many of his race, a brutal massacre of his people by white troops having embittered his savage nature, and made him, aided by his superior intelligence, one of the white man's most dangerous and implacable foes. A few years ago, however, he made peace, and has ever since done much to establish amicable relations between his people and their old enemies. The election of his successor will be an important event, and on the result will depend the continuation of peace between the Apaches and the whites.

.....An article in the Washington Republican in advocacy of a "third term" is causing some comment, from the fact that this paper is supposed in some degree to reflect the views of the administration. The Springfield Republican thus comments on it: "Probably no intelligent man—certainly no intelligent journalist—can be made to believe that they threw out that suggestion without knowing perfectly well what they were about; without the best possible reasons for believing that General Grant would not be displeased to see it in print. Hence, with its appearance, the third-term discussion enters a new phase. Hitherto it has been speculative; now it becomes "business." Here is something that is either an announcement or feeler, or—still more likely—a mixture of both. If the popular response is unsatisfactory, nothing is easier at this stage than to disavow it. But it can bear but one construction: "Barkis is willin."

"THE TAMING OF THE SHREW" AND ITS AUTHORSHIP.—Mr. F. J. Furnival, the eminent English philologist and the director of the Shakespearean society, has written a letter to the Athenæum, in which he treats the various expositions of the authorship of "The Taming of the Shrew." He accepts Mr. Richard Grant White's elucidation. He says: "In 1857 that very able American Shakespeare editor, Richard Grant White, investigated the structure of "The Taming of the Shrew" for himself, and gave his opinion on it." Mr White's theory was that three hands are traceable in the comedy—the author of the old play, Shakespeare himself and a colaborer. The part of the first is seen in the plot, that of the colaborer in most of the love business between Bianca and her suitors, and that of Shakespeare in the humor, the characterization—in short, in whatever the play contains that is Shakespearean. Mr. Fleay, a member of the executive committee of the Shakespearean society had charged Mr. Furnival with an attempt to appropriate the theory. Mr. Furnival says: "I never did so; but at our meeting (Mr. Fleay was not present) I started with quoting or stating Mr. Grant White's view, complained that Mr. Fleay's paper threw us back from it instead of carrying us forward, and then went on to work out Mr. Grant White's scheme through act and scene."

On Wednesday afternoon, the Thames street and Coddington schools. On Thursday afternoon, the Cranston and Clarke street schools and on Friday morning the Rogers High School.

—The Newport Artillery Veteran Association at a meeting held last evening at the armory on Clarke street, respectfully declined to accept the city's invitation to join in the parade on the Fourth of July as private business will make it impossible for many of their members to attend. No definite action was taken in reference to the proposed fair to be given some time during the Summer.

—Newport has some very bad boys who have frequently been reported to the city marshal for various misdemeanors in different portions of the city. The last piece of rascality occurred a few days ago on Swinburne's wharf where nineteen panes of glass were broken in the flour mill of Mr. Swinburne at one time. The city marshal will take decided action in the premises immediately. Throwing stones, mutilating awnings, fences, and fighting, are their favorite amusements.

—The concert on Touro Park Tuesday evening was well attended by a respectable class of hearers, who were, however, egregiously annoyed, and disappointed of their anticipated pleasure by the presence of a pestilent class of a-dog-in-the-manger young vociferators who would not listen themselves and seemed determined not to allow any body else to hear and enjoy the delectable entertainment. Surely that one in which the public are so generally interested, contributed to their enjoyment by private generosity, should have the fullest protection of the police department, is too plain to need any argument to prove.

THE MALL.

To the Editor of the Daily News.

The Mall on Washington Square needs protection in order to its preservation. It is a small affair, to be sure, when compared with the magnificent parks in some of our larger cities, but, nevertheless, it is of inestimable value to us, and worthy to be preserved as well as valued on account of its old associations with generations passed and gone. The trees which are a great blessing, and very useful as well as ornamental, are the growths of years, and their loss can not be repaired in two or three generations to come. One by one, in that part of the Mall near the fountain, from some cause not yet made fully known, although one is suspected, yet which involves a vandalism so shocking as to stagger belief and lead us to look closer for some probable natural cause for which there may be found a remedy. To apply this last, when found or suggested, will become the duty of those in authority, the further neglect of which should bring a reproach and censure upon every one by whose neglect or carelessness this great wrong is suffered to be done to the city over whose interests these patres conscripti have been called to preside during the time of their being clothed with their little brief authority.

The cause of the fatality among the trees is believed to be understood and the remedy is simple and imperative upon those who ought to attend to the matter, and, at the same time, inexpensive. Let a neat iron fence be immediately placed around each tree, and such care and attention paid to the grounds around the roots as to afford all those helps which nature requires in cultivation, and these venerable and beautiful and useful trees may be preserved. ——PRO BONO PUBLICO.

THE FRIENDS.

HOW TO DEVELOPE SPIRITUALITY.—THE REPORT ON EDUCATION.

Fourth day.

AFTERNOON.

At the beginning of the afternoon session the report of the committee was presented on the best means of giving an increased spiritual life to the societies within the bounds of the meeting. Family meetings and the daily reading of the Holy Scriptures in the family were most earnestly recommended also that the children be encouraged rather than discouraged to obey the leadings of the Holy Spirit in regard to vocal prayer.

There appeared a disposition on the part of some to recommit the report to the committee in order that a caution or reproof might be administered to those who either publicly or privately were disposed to hinder the work of the Lord. It was finally left for the committee to incorporate in the report whatever they might deem proper.

The attention of the meeting was called to the subject of uniform position during prayer in the public assembly—whether it should be kneeling or standing or sitting. The subject was however postponed for further consideration. At this point the meeting was visited by Caroline Talbot who offered very fervent prayer for God's blessing upon its exercises. She then addressed the meeting at length, urging a deepening and intensifying of spiritual life especially on the part of those in middle age who were immersed in the cares and business of life. She referred feelingly to the changes that had taken place in the bounds of the meeting during the five years she had visited it and in these she found earnest incitements to faithfulness and humility. The spirit of the meeting she deemed a great cause of encouragement, so that she could speak cheerfully and hopefully of the future.

The subject of position during prayer recurring the President deemed it best to leave the whole matter with the feelings of the individual.

Joseph Tillinghast and others concurred in the same view and the matter was passed.

The report of the committee on education was presented, mostly statistical: The most important items were as follows.

No. monthly meeting schools	1
" family schools	1
" children attending school	477
" " attending school partially under Friends' care	112
" attending schools and colleges not under care of Friends	25
" Friends engaged in teaching	88
" 1st day schools	42
" attending 1st day schools	3437
" societies without schools or Bible classes	23

The committee reported that some meetings had not reported and because there was little to do asked that the committee be discontinued.

Eli Jones opposed the approval of the report because 1st; in his opinion the committee should not be discontinued. 2d, because the statistics given by the committee were valueless because incorrect and 3d, because there was need of some able active committee who should gather full statistics and infuse life into the Sabbath School work. He deeply deplored the fact that there were 23 societies without Sabbath Schools.

The clerk thought the subject of statistics might properly be referred to the monthly meetings. Albert R. Smiley thought one live man should be appointed who should if necessary visit the different societies and gather the statistics. Eli Jones felt there should be more interest among Friends in New England in the cause of schools not only 1st day schools but regarding general education. They had nothing to fear only from ignorance. Timothy K. Earle wanted a live committee who should have general oversight of the whole matter. John H. Crossman would like a committee that would dare to criticize the Providence boarding school. John Hanson thought the committee should secure some uniformity and orthodoxy in the books of instruction. He visited one school where the only books were those borrowed from Universalists.

At the suggestion of several Friends a committee was named who should take the whole subject of the report in charge and report some plan at afternoon session 5th day to best promote the interests of education.

Report of committee on Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Indians was presented. The committee reported that only the spiritual and educational affairs came under the care of Friends as the state of Maine appoints an agent to disburse some $6000 among them. There are only about 1000 Indians in both tribes. The school was reported in a very unsatisfactory condition. Eli Jones gave a very interesting account of his visit to the schools.

The same committee were continued for the ensuing year with authority to draw from the treasury $150.

Report of committee on temperance presented. And at the suggestion of report and several Friends a joint committee of four was appointed from each quarterly meeting who should further the cause of temperance. Several Friends suggested that the committee should procure statistics as to how many Friends sold and used intoxicating drink and how many were accustomed to the use of tobacco and report at next yearly meeting.

Meeting adjourned at 6½ o'clock.

Fifth Day.

MORNING.

Very interesting and largely attended meetings for worship were held this morning in both rooms at the Friends' meeting house. The meeting in the men's room was addressed by Elmwood Ogden of Iowa, Dr. J. C. Thomas of Baltimore, Caroline Talbot of Ohio, Josiah Dillon of Iowa and others. The meeting in the women's room was participated in by Rebecca Collins of New York, Allen Jay of North Carolina, Dr. Thomas, John P. Pennington of Indiana and Alexander K. Purdy of New York.

DIABOLICAL DESIGNS OF WOOD.

To show how low and degraded country journalism has become, we will cite this fact: Thirty years ago all these newspaper fiends went into cahoot, and started papers for the simple purpose of laying up enormous amounts of wood. For this purpose every country paper put this notice at the head of its local column:

WOOD WANTED.

We will take wood for subscription for this paper. Bring on your wood!

Yes, "bring on your wood!" Mark that! Now, what are these rascals doing? Why, they have been running newspapers for wood until they have got all the wood in the country in their own hands. And now wood is up—they've made a corner in it. "But," the reader will ask, "where is their market? What good will it do them? Poor, ignorant souls! We'll tell you. After these country editors have got all the wood in the country into their own hands, what do they do? Why, they go to work, tooth and toe-nail, and advocate cremation. They know perfectly well, just as soon as cremation becomes a part of American politics, every man will be trying it on his mother-in-law and wife's relation, and and wood will go up to $100 a cord! Every one of these fiends will have this advertisement on one whole side of his paper:

TO CREMATIONISTS.

Ten million cords of the best hickory, old and dry, just the thing for burning your dear ones in the quickest time possible. Old exchanges for kindling, thrown in gratis. Apply at this office.

Then these country editors will be rolling in wealth, instead of glue and molasses, and would no more think of exchanging with you than running a patent outside. Ah, this is a deep laid plot!—[Sedalia Democrat.

A CODLING MOTH.—Prof. Beal, of the Michigan Agricultural College communicates some experiments tried last year in destroying the codling moth. He says: "About the 10th of June last year and the year before, the trunks and larger limbs of the trees were well scraped and rubbed with soft soap to kill the eggs and young of the borers. As soon as the apples were the size of snails' eggs, bands were put about the bearing tree. The bands were made of thick, coarse paper of two or three thickness, making a strip as wide as the hand. These were wrapped about the tree and secured by a carpet tack stuck in half its length. Some woolen cloth bands were used. We like them the best. They were taken off and examined, and the larvæ killed, every week or ten days. It costs us about seventy cents in labor of students to remove and replace the band each time for 211 trees. If left two weeks longer, there is danger that the chrysalis will discharge the moth, and thus the bandages do more hurt than good. The largest catch was 1,450, July 13, the smallest 210, August 15. We ought to have knocked off and picked up the small, wormy apples, especially early in the season, so as to catch the young of the first crop of moths. The first brood is the one which does the chief damage to our Fall and Winter fruit. It was impracticable to turn in hogs, in which we have so much confidence for keeping the moth in check. The moth can fly for considerable distance, hence the necessity for concert of action in whole neighborhoods."

PENALTIES OF PUBLIC SINGERS.—A fact little known to the public regarding the singing voice, that almost all vocalists' throats are in a chronic state of inflammation, or an approach to it, which would be considered downright soreness by anybody else. A friend of mine, who is a prima donna, goes through life with a pair of red and swollen tonsils which would serve me very nicely for a quinzy. Familiarity in such cases breeds contempt as the proverb teaches, for the abnormally enlarged tonsils create no disturbance in my friend's mind. She remarks that a physician who was unacquainted with artists' throats would surely send her to bed if he got a peep at hers. But it is seldom necessary to caution the possessor of a singing voice to vigilance in the care of it; it is too precious a possession to be lightly guarded. A voice which in the money sense is equivalent to a row of brown stone fronts on Fifth avenue, or I know not how many oil wells in Pennsylvania, will be treated with the utmost respect by a wise possessor. Unfortunately the singing voice is short lived, if it be used. The exactions of modern opera are so destructive in their effects, that it is calculated the average duration in freshness of a soprano voice is eight years, and of a tenor voice only six. The baritone is somewhat hardier, while the bass voice will generally last a lifetime: though there are well known instances of once celebrated bassos who still walk the earth in all their manly physical vigor, but sing no more.—[Olive Logan, in The Galaxy for June.

JOHN AND MAC.—During a session of the territorial legislation of Montana held several years ago a measure was introduced which involved grave constitutional questions, as it seemed to some. One fiery orator declaimed quite fiercely against it, urging that it was "clearly in opposition to the great principles of Magna Charta which the brave barons in days of old had wrested from King John, a blessed result of a bloody conflict." Possibly all this was but a bit of fine talk not fully comprehended by the speaker himself. Judge D——, evidently looking upon this daring flight of his colleague as a studied "stunner" rose immediately to reply, determined to show that he for one was not to be overwhelmed by high-sounding words or obscure allusions. Plunging at once in medias res, he declared that it was a matter of but the slightest importance to him what might have been the opinions or principles of King John and his man M'Carty. They might have been very good and able men, but it was high time for legislative bodies of Montana to think and act for themselves.

Under the influence of the judge's eloquent effort, the measure was defeated.

John and Mac have done noble duty for a long time, but at last 'their' authority has been boldly and successfully challenged. Our legislature has indignantly repelled their interference from this time on forever. "Let the dead past bury its dead."—[Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine.

STRONG DRINK.—The appetite for intoxicating stimulants is one no human power can subdue. "Of 500,000 men who have taken the pledge in the United States," says Dr. Chamours on the authority of the Band of Hope Review, 350,000 have broken it. Have the same proportion ever broken the vows of chastity or any other solemn obligation? If we cannot overcome the instinct, let us regulate it by discriminating legislation in favor of wines and beer, vineyards and hopyards. Experience has also shown that prohibition stimulates use of opium and Indian hemp, even more deleterious than alcohol.—[Dr. William A. Hammond.

MARRIED.

DEWICK—PEECE.—In this city, June 18th, by the Rev. C. H. Malcom, Mr. George Dewick, and Miss Sarah Jane Peece, both of Newport.

Be on the Alert! Danger is at Hand!

This has been a sickly season. The medical faculty prophesy evil in the future. They think pestilence is on the wing for America. Suppose this to be true, what is the best defense against it? Redoubled nervous vigor. This is the only protection against panic as well as against the principal of infection. Why do not those who predict the epidemic propose an adequate preventive? There is one—a tonic, nervine and alterative, competent to shield the system against the subtle elements of disease, whether they float hither on the winds from distant lands, or rise like vapor from our own soil, or are incorporated with the universal fluid. This one preventive, of which there is no duplicate among the compounds either of the Old World or the New, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Remember that it is a specific for all the complaints which lay the system open to the inroads of deadly epidemics. If you are dyspeptic, it renews the vigor of your digestive powers, gives you appetite, and restores your cheerfulness. If you are nervous, it invigorates every fibre of your nervous system, from the base of the brain, where it begins, to the extremities, where it terminates. If you are bilious, it disciplines your unruly liver and brings the action of that organ into harmony with the laws of health. It is, in short an invigorant an alterative so powerful that nature, with Hostetter's Bitters for her ally, may bid defiance alike to native malaria and foreign infection. It not only awakens the physical powers from a state of collapse and inanition, but it imparts permanent vigor to the muscular and nervous systems, reinforcing, as it were, both the stronghold and the outworks of vitality. The aged, the decrepid, the nervous, the broken down of both sexes, are recommended to try it. They will assuredly find it a present help in time of trouble.

Protect Your Buildings.

Saturate a Piece of Bread or Meat with gastric juice, and it will dissolve. This is digestion. Add to such a mixture a little alcohol, and it will not dissolve. This is indigestion. Beware, then, of tinctures, or tonics, or decoctions containing spirituous liquors. Shun all rum "tonics," and rely solely on DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, the finest digestive invigorant known, and free from the fiery curse of Alcohol. je4-4w

Astral Oil.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL.

WHAT IS IT! Astral Oil is a derivative of petroleum, produced by a new and improved process of manufacture, which gives it all the good, without any of the objectionable qualities of ordinary refined kerosene. Explosion is guarded against, and families can burn ASTRAL OIL WITH THE SAME ASSURANCE OF SAFETY AS THEY CAN GAS.

ITS QUALITIES: It is perfectly pure, containing no mixture or chemicals. It gives a clear, uniform and beautiful light, unequalled even by gas. It is free from objectionable odors. It burns in the ordinary Kerosene Lamps. It is always uniform in quality.

ITS SAFETY: The Astral Oil may be relied upon as non-explosive and in every way perfectly safe to use. It, while burning, a lamp be upset and broken, the contents will not explode or take fire. It is the safest oil that can be made. Persons once using it will have no other. For sale by Grocers generally. d29

Newport Daily News.

THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1874.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Another Attempt at Financial Compromise.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17.

The currency conference has come to the conclusion that in order to secure an agreement upon any measure whatever relating to finance it will be necessary to abandon the idea of a speedy resumption of specie payment, and probably to leave the subject of free banking for future consideration. The committee has not as yet finally agreed upon a bill, but an attempt is making in committee to bring about a compromise upon the measure with the following features: The volume of the currency to be limited to $382,000,000; the President to have no power to withdraw the $26,000,000 of legal tender reserve issued during the last season; the reserve upon circulation to be abolished and five per cent. of the reserves upon deposit to be retained in the Treasury for the redemption of mutilated notes. It is calculated that the abolition of the reserves, as fixed, will release and place in circulation $30,000,000 of greenbacks.

The Moiety Bill.

Senator Scott obtained the floor about four o'clock, but, contrary to general expectation, he brought up the southern claims instead of the moiety bill. The conference committee have agreed upon all the points of difference, however, and the bill will probably be promptly passed when taken up.

The Savings Banks Relief Bill.

The bill for the relief of savings banks, which passed the House on Monday, was passed in the Senate today without a dissenting voice. This bill will relieve the savings banks of the country from the payment of a tax on surplus dividends, from 1864 to 1871, which a recent decision of the United States Supreme court declared them liable to pay. The amount involved was quite large, two of the Massachusetts banks having more than $25,000 each at stake, and many others being quite largely interested.

FROM NEW YORK.

Important Movements in New York.

NEW YORK, June 17.

It is stated that a Boston Merchant and a London merchant, both of whom are interested in the China trade and who are connected with a trans. Pacific steamer line; are in this city, endeavoring to complete arrangements to increase the service between China, Japan and our Pacific coast. They are stated to have proposed to the Pacific railroads that the latter take $100,000 worth of the steamship company's stock, and enter into reciprocal business and freight transportation arrangements with the steamship company. The latter is ready to contract for the monthly mail service between China, Japan and San Francisco. It is understood the officials of the two Pacific railroads view the proposition favorably.

Newspaper Postage.

A Tribune dispatch says if the newspaper postage bill as it now stands, becomes a law it will during the next six months impose a tax of between two and three million dollars, most of which must be paid by less than five hundred individuals and firms, and the only explanation of this extraordinary legislation is a desire on the part of the Senate to punish the newspapers for bringing about an abolition of the franking privileges.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Serious Railroad Accident.

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 17.

A serious accident occurred this morning to an excursion train on the Carolina Central Railroad. Several hundred excursionists were on their way to this city, and when about two and a half miles this side of Silasville the locomotive, two flat cars, the baggage car and second-class car were thrown from the track. Captain F. M. Wolton, conductor, was slightly hurt. Thomas Alderman, express messenger, was seriously injured. Three negroes were killed and nine injured. Ten or twelve whites were also injured.

Wisconsin Episcopal Convention.

MILWAUKEE, June 17.

In the Episcopal Convention tonight, Rev. Dr. Wells, of Red Wing, was elected Bishop. He is a moderate churchman. The Rev. John Henry Brown, of Cohoes, N. Y., was nominated for Bishop of Wisconsin by the clergy, but was twice rejected by the laity.

The Bunker Hill Anniversary.

BOSTON, June 17.

The Bunker Hill Monument Association held their annual meeting today. President Geo. W. Warren, in his annual report, said it had been thought best not to make any extended celebration this year, as the centennial anniversary next year, would be an occasion of more moment and importance. Hon. Carl Schurz and George W. Curtis were made honorary members. It was voted that Robert C. Winthrop be invited to deliver the oration at the centennial anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17th, 1875, and that the executive committee be directed to make arrangements to have the occasion celebrated in a proper manner.

An American Paper Suppressed.

PARIS, June 17.

Copies of the New York Herald containing a letter written by Rochefort on his arrival in New York were seized on account of his attack on President Mac Mahon.

Indian Incursion into Kansas.

TOPEKA, Ks., June 17.

Governor Osborne received a telegram from Dodge City asking arms to defend the citizens of that vicinity against hostile Indians who are said to be killing people within ten miles of that city.

Drought in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, June 17.

The crops in southern and western Kentucky are suffering from the long continued drought. Only very slight rains have fallen for two months, and the best advices indicate that not more than one-third of the usual crop of tobacco can be gathered.

NEWS ITEMS.

A letter from Rome states that a Masonic temple is to be built in that city, and that the order flourishes extensively there under the persecution of the pope and priests. Count Pianciani, mayor of Rome, is a Freemason.

A Portland, Me., despatch states that Robbins, the "Annie B." murderer, has been showing marked signs of insanity, and a physician's certificate of epileptic insanity was presented to the commissioners of the court. The prosecution contended that the insanity was feigned and the court adjourned.

Professor Tyndall exhibited his fireman's respirator at a recent meeting of the Royal Society in London. It is attached to a mask and consists of an iron cylinder packed with cotton wool, glycerine and charcoal. The wearer is enabled to remain in an atmosphere of smoke, which he could not otherwise breathe, for a quarter to half an hour.

Hodges, superintendant of tree planting for the St. Paul and Pacific Railway Company, reports over 4,000,000 trees planted along the lines of that company since he commenced work in the Spring of last year. Less than three per cent have failed, and the rest are doing well. The prairie farmers along the line are generally following the example.

Dr. King, agent of Gov. Kellogg, of Louisiana, and Mayor Wiltz of New Orleans, addressed the Louisiana Relief Committee at St. Louis Tuesday. He says that fully a third of the state is still under water one or two feet deep, and 70,000 to 80,000 people are now in a destitute condition. Much sickness prevails, and unless the people obtain relief the suffering during the summer will be almost beyond precedent. Additional contributions were made.

A letter from Vinita, Indian Territory, says that a vigilance committee lately formed in that territory, extending to Kansas, for the purpose of ridding the country of the band of outlaws who defy the authorities, steal horses, and depredate generally. Within a short time John Blythe, John Friend, young Cochran, Dock Goddard and two others whose names are not given, have been lynched. Seventeen other desperadoes are on the list of the committee, most of whom will be ordered out of the country, while Joe Queen and Morgan, the leaders of the gang, will be killed at sight.

A letter from Nelsonville, O., says the effect of the troubles in the mining regions has damaged the manufacturing and other interests in Columbus, and within a radius of 150 miles of that city, more than a million dollars. The negroes employed to take the place of the striking miners are mostly large men, who have seen service in the late rebellion, and are talked off into companies under officers, all thoroughly armed and well drilled. They keep pickets out to prevent threatened raids of the strikers from surprising them, and in the plain they have an encampment under military rules. Reinforcements of non-union miners are continually arriving, and the mines will ere long be in full working condition.

NEW YORK ITEMS.

The proceedings for the examination of Gen. Butler in the case of Jasper K. Herbert vs Gazawny B. Lamar are dismissed.

John Donahue, arrested as the supposed murderer of Michael Graham at Little Neck, L. I., has been discharged on legal grounds.

Recorder Hackett charged the Grand Jury against the new dog law. He considers the manner of killing a public nuisance and a needless cruelty to animals.

The seventeenth annual regatta of the Brooklyn Yacht Club took place Tuesday. Seven schooners, three first-class sloops, eleven second-class and four third-class sloops participated. The distance for the schooners and first-class sloops was 40 miles, for second-class 32 miles, and for third-class sloops 22 miles. The conquest was completed in the incredible time of 4 hours, 25 minutes and 25 seconds. The schooner Tidal Wave won the flag, officers' and club prize, and the Comet the union prize. For first-class sloops, the Undine won the flag, officers and club prize, and the A. T. Asten the union prize. For second-class sloops, the Schemer won the flag, officers and prize. For third-class sloops, the W. T. Lee won the flag prize, and the Brooklyn the union prize.

Newport Daily News.

THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1874.

BUCKWHEAT.—A Delaware farmer gives the following as his method with this crop: The ground must be made mellow. To do this properly required two plowings. The first should be made in Spring or before the ground gets hard and dry. The second at the time of sowing. The ground must be in good tilth, or made moderately so by manure, at or near the time of sowing. The grain should be sowed as late as it will do and have it ripe before the frost nips it. Here comes all the chance there is in raising this grain. I am convinced that if every farmer should divide the ground he intends to sow with buckwheat, and in this latitude sow one part about the 20th of July, the rest from the 1st to the 10th of August, he would not fail once in twenty years of having from at least one piece a good crop. My practice is to plow deep in the Spring, manure, and plow in lightly from the 1st to the 10th of August, immediately sow and harrow well. With this treatment I have not failed to receive from thirty to sixty fold, and that too on my poorest land. From a single spear raised this season, that I had room to develop, I shelled and counted 3,605 perfect kernels. About three fourths of a bushel should be sowed to an acre, unless the ground is rich, or to be highly manured, when one half a bushel will be better.

THE BOWDOIN COLLEGE AFFAIR.—The young gentlemen of Bowdoin College, who were too proud to drill, have come to terms at last, if we are to judge from the following newspaper despatch of June 9: Nearly all the suspended students have renewed their obligations of obedience to the college laws, and have resumed their studies. This afternoon, at the usual hour for drill, they answered to the call of the bugle, and the military exercises were conducted with full ranks. We congratulate the college faculty on the removal of an annoyance, and the young gentlemen on their return to reason. At present, there is no doubt that some soreness will be felt by the students for a little time at the fact of their defeat, but the time will come, in future years, when they may see cause to be grateful to General Chamberlin for having introduced them to that training in military science which ought to be a feature of every college in the land. Had we possessed such a system in our numerous colleges before the war, we need not have incurred a debt of thousands of millions in making an army out of a mob for want of a sufficient supply of educated officers.—Army and Navy Journal.

MONEY AND IDEAS.—The American navy army man is trained to cherish the sentiment of the heroic, and taught to consider the defence of honor as the first duty of the state and to himself. He is to this extent the ideal of this generation. Nor is it easy to weigh the influence thus exerted. In a country given over to money-making, these are influential classes of men, who carry their dream of honor as the essence of their prosession, and the fact of their lives. Were it not for the officer, who embodies the chivalric, the poet who places the well-won laurel on his brow, and sings the praises of virtue and truth, the artist who puts in plastic mould or in living colors his noble inspirations, leading to heroic deeds, and above all, without that highest ideal type of manhood, the soldier of the cross, the hero who devotes his life to his faith in the immortal, deprived of these classes of men our country were but a vast desert of materialism, where the need of gold fill up the sordid sum of life. Let the men and women who sigh for universal peace understand that until the world can be christianized the true minister of peace is the brave officer, sworn to uphold, maintain and defend the right.—[Mrs. Dahlgren.
